It has the finest references, and has always been exceedingly prompt in its payments, as can be shown by its records, being sustained by wealthy gentlemen.

It takes both Life and Fire risks on terms as low as any Eastern Company.

VALUABLE PLANTATION FOR SALE!

ON THE SECOND THURSDAY IN DECEMBER, that being the 13th day of the month, I will sell to the highest bidder, upon the premises, that desirable lately owned, and resided upon, by Miss Elizabeth Hinton, dec'd.

The tract is situated on Neuse River, six miles East of Raleigh, on the Tarboro' Road, adjoining the lands of David Hinton. It contains ELEVEN HUNDRED AND NINETY-FIVE ACRES. of land,—from THREE TO FOUR HUNDRED of which are cleared. About 100 acres are fine low grounds, not liable to over-flow. This is considered one of the best Cotton Plantations in the County, and the bottom land will always produce enough Corn to sustain it.

THE IMPROVEMENTS

consist of a handsome Dwelling House, containing seven rooms, located on a commanding site. There are three frame houses also on the premises, with two rooms each, and all necessary out-houses, cabins, barns, gin house, carriage house, &c.

As this land will be sold on the liberal credit of only one-third cash, the balance payable in one, two and three years, a rare opportunity is afforded to parties wishing to purchase a first-class farm.

Personal security will be required, and title will be with-held until the last payment is made.

NOTE.—This Land will be divided into three tracts, the House-tract 600 acres, another tract of 350 acres, and another of 245, plots of which may be seen at my office above Creech's Store.

INFALLIBLE YEAST POWDERS.

Scientific men, who thoroughly understand the subject, concur with great unanimity in saying that nothing exerts such a deleterious influence against health as bad bread. The remedy is at hand in SIMPSON'S INFALLIBLE YEAST POWDERS, the value of which is thus certified:

RALEIGH, Aug. 24, 1866.

I have tested the Yeast Powders you manufacture and can recommend them as vastly superior to any other ever used by me. In addition to the lightness and sweetness of the bread, the powders are economical, as one-third the lard usually required will answer in the making of either loaf bread or biscuit. For pastries and cakes they are excellent.

VIRGINIA A. ORR.

The price of these powders per package is 25 cts. or 75 cts. per pound. To be had at Wm. Simpson's Confectionary Store, Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

RALEIGH, Aug. 23, 1866.

This is to certify that I have used Mr. Simpson's Yeast Powders and find them to be superior to any I have ever used. After trying them once no housekeeper will be satisfied without them.

MRS. S. D. HARRISON.

Disloyalty.

Mr. Holden says that one evidence of the disloyalty of the present Legislature is the recent election of Judge Manly to the U. S. Senate.—It was equally so to have elected him Speaker, we presume. Was the act of electing him disloyal, per se, or did the disloyalty consist in electing a disloyal man? Here is a question upon which may hang a tale. If the Judge be disloyal and the Legislature be disloyal for electing him, then by parity of reasoning, the President must be disloyal for pardoning the disloyal Judge and Prov. Gov. Holden must be disloyal for recommending his pardon, as he did. But this charge of disloyalty by the Standard after all, has a veil so thin or a brand so slight, that it is easily removed. Let a man, no matter what may have been his antecedents, become a supporter of Mr. Holden, and at once he is reckoned among the faithful, and counted a loyal man; on the other hand, if he oppose Mr. Holden, his antecedents or present position can avail nothing.

That Scene.

The Standard thinks, if anything could have been wanting to convince Congress of the necessity of superseding the present civil government of North Carolina, the scene in the House on yesterday ought to be enough. "Straws show the way the wind blows," but the Standard very often takes a zephyr for a whirlwind. Of course it is evidence of great disloyalty, sufficient to break up governments and institute new ones, when people show their detestation of those who for months and years, have been employing every means to effect their ruin. It is monstrous to denounce or ridicule the attempts of those who aim to compass the destruction of the whole people of a State, and jeopard every interest they have, simply to enjoy offices they are incapable of filling. Is it not? The abuse and misrepresentation and vindictiveness of the "loyalists" must be borne without complaint. These latter-day saints claim perfect immunity for all the unfounded and slanderous assaults they make upon the body of the people, and think that Congress can do no more pious work, than throw our entire people upon their backs, that these scape-graces may put their feet upon their necks! The Congress, perhaps, will show them after all, that it weighs loyalty in other balances.

Feeling and Principle.

We observed the other day, that we were ready to surrender any personal or political feeling to effect the great object of national tranquility and Union. This the Standard thinks, is only pretty, but contradicts facts. We do not see the point. We are ready to surrender all feeling, all party feeling whatever, to secure this, but not to surrender great principles which lie at the foundations of the government. We are for the government and the Union. We prefer it to any other form of government for us at present. Hence we cannot surrender principle, which protects and sustains the government for any temporary advantage. How the Standard can ignore utterly all the principles it has ever advocated, except its seven cardinal principles, "the five loaves and the two fishes," we are at a loss to decide.

Mr. Logan.

We are glad to be able to relieve the anxiety which we hear has been expressed as to the whereabouts of Mr. Logan. The Standard of this morning says, he is on a visit to his home in Rutherford. This we supposed would be the result of our enquiry.

Councillors of State.

After many ballottings, for Councillors of State, only three have been elected: Messrs. W. A. Wright, of New Hanover, Wm. Eaton, jr., of Warren, and E. W. Jones, of Caldwell.

REPORT ON THE AMENDMENT.—The anxiety of many to see the temper of the Legislature on the subject of the Howard amendment, induces us to give the report entire before its adoption. It will probably undergo some slight amendments as to its verbiage. It is from the pen of Gen. J. M. Leach of Davidson and will be found to be a strong and able paper.

The Grand Jury of Brunswick County, at the last County Court, presented a paper entering their protest against the proposition to repudiate either personal or State debts. They hold that "every honest debt of the State, as well as the citizens thereof, should be honorably discharged,"—they trust that the Legislature may be able to afford to the debtor some relief, but they believe that the public interest will be subserved and the public credit restored by the declaration of the Legislature, that under no circumstances will North Carolina repudiate her debts. This is good doctrine.

The captain and part of the crew of the steamship Susanna arrived at Wilmington on Wednesday, in a yawl boat the Susannes having encountered a gale sunk off Frying Pan Shoals. All on board took three boats, but only one has been heard from. The steamer was loaded with arms and ammunition bound from New York to Brazos, Santiago.

DIRECT TRADE.—A Mr. A. L. Palmer, of New Brunswick, gives notice in the Wilmington papers, that he designs to run a number of first class steamers of light draught between Wilmington and Liverpool. A good idea, which we hope will be successful.

REPORT

Of the Select Joint Committee of both Houses of the General Assembly, on the proposition to adopt the Congressional Constitutional Amendment.

The Joint Select Committee on Federal Relations, to which was referred that part of the Governor's Message relating to a communication from the Honorable Wm. H. Seward, Secretary of State for the United States, covering an attested copy of a Joint Resolution of Congress, proposing a fourteenth Article as an Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, to be submitted to this General Assembly for ratification or rejection, have had the same under consideration, and ask leave to report:

The Committee, impressed with the importance of the subjects embraced in the proposed Constitutional Amendment, as affecting the Commonwealth of North Carolina, not merely for the present, but, in all human probability, for ages to come, have given the whole matter a careful and respectful consideration, and now offer the reasons for the conclusions at which they have arrived.

A number of radical changes in the fundamental law of the country are proposed to be embraced in one article, and to be accepted or rejected together, and if but one of these amendments is disapproved, this General Assembly will be under the necessity of rejecting all; leaving no alternative of accepting some of the sections in the proposed article and rejecting others; and it is submitted that this mode of amending the Constitution of the United States is unwise, and without precedent, and ought not to find favor in any portion of this great nation.

The Committee entertain the opinion that this proposition has not been submitted in a constitutional manner, and in pursuance of the forms prescribed by the Constitution. North Carolina and her ten sister seceding States, have been repeatedly recognized as States in the Union, by all the Departments of the Federal Government, both during and since the war.—Congress did this by the Resolutions of July, 1861, which declared that "the object of the war was not for any purpose of conquest or subjugation, nor for the purpose of overthrowing or interfering with the rights or established institutions of those States, but to defend and maintain the supremacy of the Constitution and to preserve the Union with all the dignity, equality and rights of the several States unimpaired." And again: by an Act apportioning taxation among the States; by an Act assigning them their respective numbers of Representatives; by an Act at the last session re-adjusting the Federal Judicial Circuits, by accepting as valid the assent of Virginia to the division of that State, and thereupon establishing the State of West Virginia; and by other Acts. The Judiciary has recognized them by hearing and deciding causes carried up from their Courts. The Executive has done so by approving the aforesaid Acts of Congress. This recognition of them as States in the Union is now repeated by the Federal Government in submitting to them for ratification the pending proposition of amendment, since only States in the Union can vote on such a question.

The Federal Constitution declares, in substance, that Congress shall consist of a House of Representatives, composed of members apportioned among the respective States in the ratio of their population, and of a Senate, composed of two members from each State. And in the Article which concerns Amendments, it is expressly provided that "no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate." The contemplated amendment was not proposed to the States by a Congress thus constituted. At the time of its adoption, the eleven seceding States were deprived of representation both in the Senate and House, although they all, except the State of Texas, had Senators and Representatives duly elected and claiming their privileges under the Constitution. In consequence of this, these States had no voice on the important question of proposing the Amendment. Had they been allowed to give their votes, the proposition would doubtless have failed to command the required two-thirds majority. Had they voluntarily relinquished the exercise of their right and privilege in this matter, as they had done in the case of the late amendment respecting slavery, they would, perhaps, be estopped from objecting to the regularity of the proceeding. But as their Senators and Representatives elect were seeking admission to their seats and were deprived of them against their consent, the subject is presented in a different light.

If the votes of these States are necessary to a valid ratification of the Amendment, they were equally necessary on the question of proposing it to the States; for it would be difficult, in the opinion of the Committee, to show by what process in logic, men of intelligence, could arrive at a different conclusion. And it is submitted that this irregularity, in the initiative step, would make the Amendment of doubtful validity, even if ratified. It would certainly constitute a dangerous precedent, give rise to troublesome questions hereafter, remove the landmarks established by the fathers, and greatly tend to diminish that regard for the sacredness of the Constitution, which all our people ought ever to cherish.

The Committee are of the opinion that the Constitution was not complied with in another particular, in the manner of proposing this Amendment. The third clause of section second, article first, provides that "every order, resolution, or vote, to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment,) shall be presented to the President of the United States, and before the same shall take effect, it shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be re-passed by two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill." A proposition to amend the Constitution is certainly included in the terms of that provision, as being a matter requiring the concurrent action of both Houses. The pending Amendment, however, was never presented to the President, for his approval or disapproval, but sent directly to the Department of State, to be transmitted thence to the respective States.

And it is far from a satisfactory answer to this, to say that because the proposition was originally passed by a two-thirds majority, it need not be presented to the President, since his disapproval could not affect it; for his disapproval might affect it when put upon its re-passage after he had returned it with his objection—an occurrence not remarkable in the past history of the government.—And this re-passage over his veto by the two-thirds majority is required before any "order, resolution or vote" of Congress can "take effect," even though on its original passage it may have received an unanimous support.

If it should be said that any doubts as to the validity of the proposed Amendment, whether ratified or rejected, under present circumstances, will be obviated by the strong arm of power which will validate it at all hazards; the ready answer is, that if the strong arm can give validity to an amendment adopted in disregard and defiance of some of the prescriptions of the organic law, it can, with the same propriety, set them all aside. On that supposition, the Constitution would be at the mercy of the strongest, and could at any time be moulded according to the will of a mere majority, however unscrupulous or despotic that majority might be. It would thus become the plaything of politicians and parties—its sanctity profaned and its glory departed.

The committee do not present these views in any spirit of captiousness, nor as the advocates of mere sectional interests, notwithstanding the Amendment proposed is unquestionably designed to operate on the Southern States of this Union; indeed, such are the avowals of its advocates. But the question of its ratification under existing auspices, is of the gravest import to the whole country, and to the cause of free, constitutional government. In the mutations of human affairs, and the conflict of interest and opinion that may arise in the future history of this great and wide-spread nation, the time may come when changes of the Federal Constitution may be made in derogation of the rights and interests of other parts of the Union.—In so grave a matter too much precaution cannot be used. The Constitution is the basis of our liberties. No true American has ever ceased to regard it as peculiarly sacred, as well for its own instrinsic excellence, as for the exalted character of its patriotic founders. And it should never be forgotten that those good and great men, inspired by lofty deeds, in a spirit of forbearance, conciliation and compromise, and in the exercise of an enlightened statesmanship, framed this great bulwark of civil and religious liberty. Even those who are called "rebels," have never spoken lightly of it. The affections of all sincere lovers of liberty twine around it, like ivy around some hallowed shrine where the heart pours forth its profoundest devotions.

Many of the prominent questions of the present time are of temporary interest only, and will soon be forgotten; and with them will pass away the passions and hate which they have engendered. But the Consititution was made for all ages. For peace and for war. All patriots will unite in the hope that its majesty and symmetry may not be marred by the incorporation of amendments shaped amid the excitements of these tempestuous days, and made a part of it through methods of proceeding which are hasty and ill-considered, and unwarranted by the provisions of the instrument itself.

Proceeding, more in detail, to the merits of the proposed Amendment, the Committee have confined themselves to its most prominent features.

In the first section it is provided, that "no State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States." What those privileges and immunities are, is not defined. Whether reference is had only to such privileges and immunities as may be supposed now to exist, or to all others which the Federal Government may hereafter declare to belong to it, or may choose to grant to citizens, is left in doubt, through the latter construction seems the more natural, and is one which that Government could at any time insist upon as correct and entirely consistent with the language used. With this construction placed upon it, what limit would remain to the power of that Government to interfere in the internal affairs of the States? And what becomes of the right of a State to regulate its domestic concerns in its own way? Whatever restrictions any State might think proper, for the general good, to impose upon any or all of its citizens, upon a declaration by the Federal Government, that such restrictions were an abridgement of the privileges or immunities of the citizens of the Union, such State laws would at once be annulled. For instance; the law of North Carolina forbids the inter-marriage of white persons and negroes. But if this amendment be ratified, the Government of the United States could declare that this law, abridged the privileges of citizens, and must not be enforced; and miscegenation would thereupon be legalized in this commonwealth. Grant that such action on the part of the Government would not be probable, still it would be possible; and, its bare possibility sufficiently exemplifies the boundlessness of the powers which the Amendment would confer on the Federal Government.

The power to regulate suffrage has always been claimed to belong to the several States, and it is thought by some, that this point is securely guarded by the provisions of the second section of the proposed Amendment; but a slight inspection will reveal the fact that the power of the States to regulate suffrage is by no means expressly recognized therein; nor is their right to "deny" or "abridge" the franchise distinctly set forth. The provision touching the matter merely declares that when the right to vote, of any male citizen twenty-one years old is "denied" or "abridged" the basis of representation shall be reduced in any State where that shall occur. It is not said who shall have the power to deny or abridge the right to vote. If the power of a State, over this subject, is recognized at all, it is only by implication, and an implication, too, which is conveyed solely in the language used for fixing a penalty upon the exercise of such power, and without saying whether its exercise may not hereafter be prohibited. No exclusive right, nor even a limited right of a State in the premises is expressly admitted, but all is allowed to rest on a doubtful inference. With the right of a State thus left doubtful, suppose the Federal Government, in the exercise of the power already spoken of as conferred by the first section of the amendment should think proper to declare that the right to vote is one of the "privileges" and "immunities" of the citizen, what could a State do except to yield the point, and what would prevent universal suffrage from being at once inaugurated? Nothing!

The founders of our polity left the management of municipal affairs, and the protection of the ordinary personal and property interests of the citizens of the States to the States themselves, uncontrolled by the supervision or interference of the Federal authorities; because, they rightly judged, that as the welfare of the individual citizen was most intimately connected with the welfare of his State, his interest could be most safely trusted to the protection of his State. The dangerous innovation involved in the clause of the Amendment now under review, coupled with the final section, giving Congress "power to enforce all the provisions of this article by appropriate legislation," consists in the fact that it authorizes the Federal Government to come in, as an intermeddler, between a State, and the citizens of the State, in almost all conceivable cases,—to supervise and interfere with the ordinary administration of justice in the State Courts, and to provide tribunals,—as has to some extent been already done in the Civil Rights Bill,—to which an unsuccessful litigant, or a criminal convicted in the Courts of the State, can make complaint that justice and the equal protection of the laws have been denied him, and however groundless may be his complaint, can obtain a re-hearing of his cause. The tendency of all this to break down and bring into contempt the judicial tribunals of the States, and ultimately to transfer the administration of justice both in criminal and civil causes, to Courts of Federal Jurisdiction, is too manifest to require illustration.

A serious objection to the second section, if it should be understood as implying the power of a State to regulate the question of suffrage, is, that it imposes a penalty upon any restriction of the franchise, and offers a premium for its extension: the representation of a State, and its consequent political importance being diminished in the one event, and increased in the other. The manifest design of this provision is, to bring about, by indirect means, the adoption of universal suffrage, irrespective of races or color. And thus a premium is offered for the prostitution of the franchise. Nothing could be more threatening to the stability of our republican institutions. There can scarcely be a doubt that if the question of negro suffrage could be calmly considered purely on its own merits, and aside from the prejudices of the times, all thoughtful and well-informed men, would unite in condemning it as in the highest degree impolitic and unwise.

A leading feature of this second section is, that, virtually, it makes the basis of representation to consist of the voters only, which is manifestly inconsistent with the theory of our political system. The voters are merely the appointing power, whose function is to select the representative; but his true constituency is the whole population. It is a great fallacy to maintain that an officer represents only those who vote for him. Senators are chosen by the State Legislature, but they represent not the Legislature merely, but all classes of the State population with their varied interests. But it is urged by the advocates of the policy of basing representation on the voters only, that this is necessary in order to give equal weight to a voter in different States, and yet there is neither justice on the one hand, nor any practical importance on the other, in this idea. Say two States have equal population, equal voting strength, and equal representation; and suppose one of them should choose to restrict the franchise so that its quota of Representatives would be selected by half of its former number of voters; this, indeed, would be a matter of interest to its own citizens, but of what possible concern could it be to the citizens of the other State? A complaint that the weight of voters was not equal, would come with bad grace from a State, which, by extending widely the franchise, had thereby diminished the relative importance of its individual voters. If two States had equal population, but one of them should allow twice as many voters as the other, then, according to the pending Amendment, one would be entitled to twice as many Representatives as the other. This might be giving equal weight to voters, but would certainly be giving very unequal weight to the respective non-voting populations; so that no consideration is given to the non-voters who must always constitute the great majority of the people, and bear a large share of the public burdens. And while the negroes, who form so large an element in the population of this Commonwealth, cannot wisely exercise the right of suffrage, and should not, therefore, be allowed to do so, yet if there ever was a time when that race should be counted in the basis of representation, it is now; for they are thrown as an immense burden on a few States, and will for many years demand the utmost exercise of every moral agency for their advancement in the scale of being.

The third section of the Amendment is designed solely to affect the South. It virtually disfranchises a large portion of the people of North Carolina. It is well known that most of our able-bodied men were Confederate soldiers during some part of the late war; and of those of our people who were not in the army, scarcely an individual, can truthfully say that he rendered "no aid or comfort" to the Southern cause; and all who had previously taken an oath to support the Federal Constitution, either as a Member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a Member of a State Legislature, or Executive or Judicial officer of any State, are excluded from, forever hereafter, holding any office, either in the State or Federal Government, unless the disability is removed by a two-thirds vote of both Houses of Congress. And it may be added, in this connection, that Congress by providing for the removal of disabilities by its action upon a two-thirds vote, invades the Constitutional right of the President to grant pardons.

Very few, indeed, of the men of this State, of mature years, and capable of filling such positions, have not at sometime held one or more of the aforesaid offices, and taken the oath specified. The immediate practical effect, therefore, of the Amendment, if ratified will be to destroy the whole machinery of our State Government, and reduce all our affairs to complete chaos, by throwing out nearly every public officer, even to Justices of the Peace and Constables; and it would be hardly possible to find enough of men qualified to fill those various offices, and re-organize our State Government.

And besides this, all experience proves that men rising to power on the ruin of their fellows, and expecting success only by the suppression of the popular will, are generally the worst of all the enemies of their own people; and the great mass of the people of this Commonwealth would, in the opinion of the Committee, prefer to commit themselves, their honor, and their interests to Congress, as now composed, rather than to those, whose only hope of ruling, lies in the disfranchisement and oppression of more loyal and better men.

The impolicy of imposing this general disability upon those who, in any way, took part in the late conflict, is shown also by the indubitable fact that most of them are now as conservative, as loyal, and as well affected towards the General Government as any class of citizens.—Those who personally participated in the great trial of arms, are perhaps more thoroughly convinced than any others, of the finality of the decision, and the utter folly of any future appeal to the arbitrament of war; and hence have, with few exceptions, readily acquiesced in the settlement which has been made of the questions in dispute. Many of those who would be disabled from holding office, are among the most prominent and excellent citizens of the State, who always opposed secession; and their services and co-operation would be greatly needed in the important work of restoring her prosperity.

But if this, and other degrading disabilities, must be imposed upon so many of her citizens, how can North Carolina herself, while she retains any sense of honor or self-respect, assist in imposing it? How can those now controlling the destinies of the Union, ask or expect her to do so, and thus set the seal to her own disgrace? How can they expect or even desire that her Representatives either now or hereafter shall assist in the work of her own degradation?

What her people have done, they have done in obedience to her own behests. Must she now punish them for obeying her own commands? If penalties have been incurred, and punishments must be inflicted, is it magnanimous, is it reasonable, nay, is it honorable, to require us to become our own executioners? Must we, as a State, be regarded as unfit for fraternal association with our fellow-citizens of other States, until after we shall have sacrificed our manhood and tarnished our honor? Surely not. North Carolina feels that she is still one of the daughters of the great American family. Wayward and wilful, perhaps, she has been; but honor and virtue still are hers. If her errors have been great, her sufferings have been greater.—Like a stricken mother, she now stands leaning in silent grief over the bloody graves of her slain children. The mementos of former glory lie in ruins around her. The majesty of sorrow sits enthroned on her brow. Proud of her sons who have died for her, she cherishes in her heart of hearts, the living children who were ready to die for her; and she loves them with a mother's warm affection. Can she be expected to repudiate them? No! it would be the act of an unnatural mother. She can never consent to it,—Never.

It is said, however, that Congress can easily remove the disability which this section imposes; but is it likely that Congress will do so?—If they be so readily removed, why impose them at all? And it should not be forgotten that Congress could, through this dispensing power, manage to fill the State offices of every grade, almost entirely according to its own choice and dictation, by relieving from disabilities only such as might serve its purposes; and thus the freedom of elections would be virtually destroyed, and the State governments might become the willing and subservient tools of grasping ambition and usurping tyranny.

All that need be said of the fourth section of the proposed Amendment is, that it is useless.—The Federal debt is already sufficiently secured by the honest intention of the people to pay it. And a noticeable fact is, with what cheerfulness the people of this Commonwealth, taxed without representation, and depressed and impoverished by the war, pay their Internal Revenue taxes. By seeking to bind the people of the whole country further to the payment of the public debt, by means of a Constitutional provision, the government betrays a lack of confidence, not perhaps more in the people of the South than in those of the North. The Confederate debt is equally certain to remain unpaid. Indeed, most of it can never fall due, by the terms on which it was contracted, and the impoverishment of the whole South, and the Acts of repudiation which have already been passed, will doubtless secure the non-payment of the remainder.

The refusal to pay for our slaves emancipated, is doubtless a great injustice, especially to those citizens who did not favor secession; but the Committee entertain the opinion that the people have never hoped, seriously, for its reparation.

In the final section, power is given to Congress "to enforce by appropriate legislation, all the provisions of this Article." How wide a door is hereby opened for the interference of Congress, with subjects hitherto regarded beyond its range, it is impossible adequately to perceive, until experience shall have tested the matter. As the Committee have already submitted, one of the most serious evils to be apprehended from this Amendment, consists in the vast addition it makes, in so many ways, to the powers of the General Government.

No enlightened patriot, who has studied carefully our system of government, and has realized how much of its excellence lies in the due division of its powers, between the Federal and State authorities, can have failed to witness, with the profoundest alarm, the tendency to centralization and consolidation, which has in late years been developed. The exercise of the mighty energies, and the assumption of new and unusual prerogatives, required to prosecute successfully, the recent war, in the nature of things, gave to the General Government an over-shadowing influence and prestige beyond what it had ever before possessed. And this result was increased by the overwhelming defeat of those States which had always stood forth as the peculiar advocates of State Rights. Every one must perceive, therefore, that even without new Constitutional grants of authority, the Federal Government is no longer what it once was, but that it has expended into a mighty giant, threatening to swallow up the States, and to concentrate all power and dignity in itself. In the interests of liberty, it appears to the Committee, that this centralization tendency, instead of being fostered, needs to be checked. The American people ought not, by new grants of power, seem to authorize the continual exercise of extraordinary prerogatives, undreamed of in the purer and happier days of the Republic. The Constitution, as it stands, was good enough for our fathers; if administered in its true spirit it will also be good enough for ourselves and our posterity.

But suppose North Carolina were to accept the Amendment, thus yielding up her honest convictions of duty and of principle, in her most anxious desire for the restoration of her former relations with the General Government, and the admission of her Representatives in Congress, what guarantee, nay, even what hope is there that such ratification would thus restore her? So far from it, the unmistakable record of the last Congress, as well as all the indications since exhibited, of tone and temper, are, that this humiliation and surrender of right and principle, would not, in the opinion of the Committee, be likely to facilitate restoration, much less affect it.

The committee having at some length gone into an analysis of the different sections of the proposed Article of Amendment, ought perhaps in closing, to say a word in regard to the intimations sometimes thrown out, that if the Southern States refuse to ratify the pending Amendment, harder terms and deeper humiliation will be imposed upon them. These are deemed only as the intemperate declarations of heated individual partizans. No responsible body of our countrymen, has dishonored itself, or us, by making such threats. It would, indeed, be mockery to submit a question so grave and important to this Commonwealth, and then place her under duress to compel her to vote in the affirmative. No humiliation could be deeper, no degradation more profound, than that which she would impose upon herself by yielding to intimidation, and ratifying under the influence of base fear, a measure which she disapproved. The committee are sure, that this honorable Legislature, will not do an act so inconsistent with its own dignity, and the dignity of the State. A question of such vital concern to the entire Union and to the cause of liberty itself, will surely be calmly and seriously considered, with the impartiality and wisdom that should characterize the conduct of statesmen, and with the manly independence of freemen; and it is therefore confidently believed, that the action this body shall take upon this grave question, will be worthy of the great State of North Carolina.

For the reasons submitted in this report, the Committee respectfully recommend the adoption of the following Resolution,—to-wit:

Resolved, That the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina, do not ratify the Amendment proposed as the fourteenth Article of the Constitution of the United States.

What Shall be Done With the Negro?

The Governor of the State of North Carolina has, in his late message, recommended the emigration of the negro to the Northern States, and very properly suggests that in his impoverished condition that those States give him assistance to emigrate. Of the general views of the Governor we most heartily join in commendation, and apply it to the State of Missouri. Against the negroes we have no unkind feeling whatever, but choose rather to treat them as the unfortunate victims of circumstances which they cannot control. But the condition of the freed population of the State is bad indeed, and can scarcely ever be better among us, and their only hope is an early emigration North. These blacks are for the most part houseless and homeless. There is scarcely one in one hundred of them who owns any real estate or any pretence of a shanty in which to live, and what is more, the white people are unable to furnish them with places in the strong slave-holding western counties, as Platte, Jackson, &c. The houses were burned down by the order of Gen. Ewing, Jim Lane and others, so that no place is spared for them a habitation, and as a consequence the largest portion of our negro population is in Iowa, Illinois and Kansas, and those remaining will soon have to follow them. The freedom of the negroes necessitates their education, to enable them to take care of themselves, and to understand their social and moral obligations, and to engage and enforce their contracts. But they must be educated in towns and villages, where there are sufficient numbers to be taught, at reasonable rates commensurate with their means, to pay their teachers.

These towns exist in the Northern States where the people are engaged in manufacturing, but never will to any great extent in the South, where the people are devoted to agriculture. The conditions forbid it. The education of the negroes cannot long be deferred—it must be done, at the earliest possible day. The Northern towns need their help and can give them opportunities of education at once. The negroes, in their freed condition, have not tenacity of purpose for field hands, though they make excellent—indeed the very best—house servants in the world. We learn from unquestionable authority that in Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Ohio that house-servants are in great demand and command high wages, and can secure every facility for education under the common school system. Burlington, Keokuk, Mount Pleasant, Davenport, Fairfield, Iowa City and Desmoines are in great need of such labor. The same is true of Quincy, Galesburg and the Illinois towns and cities. Now we propose that our papers, of all political parties, look to this matter at once and call attention to it through the press, and let active men assist them away where they may find homes before the biting frosts of winter overtake them—where they may find employment among their friends, and where they may be duly cared for. It is no use to conceal the fact that we are not in a condition to care for them. In the South they will become vagabonds. In the North they may be made useful servants. Let us show our true philantrophy by helping the blacks in their distress.

SATURDAY, Dec. 8.

The Senate was called to order at 10½ o'clock A. M.

The Journal of yesterday was read and approved.

RESOLUTIONS AND BILLS.

Mr. Avery, a bill to incorporate the North Carolina Land Emigration Company. Ordered to be printed and referred to the committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. Speed, a bill to authorize the Dismal Swamp Canal Company to issue coupon bonds bearing 8 per cent interest. On motion of Mr. Leach the rules were suspended and the bill passed its several readings, ordered to be engrossed and sent immediately to the House.

A message was received from the House transmitting an engrossed bill to amend the charter of the Washington Toll Bridge. On motion of Mr. Respass the rules were suspended and the bill passed its several readings; also a resolution in favor of the Hon. A. S. Merrimon. Referred to the committee on Claims.

The following resolutions and bills came up and passed under the suspension of the rules: A bill to incorporate Pasquotank Lodge No. 103. A bill to incorporate the Hibernian Benevolent Society in the city of Wilmington. A bill to incorporate the McLean Fire Engine Company in the town of Fayetteville. A resolution in favor of W. S. Mason for services rendered the State by the direction of the Governor.

A message was received from the House transmitting the report of the committee on joint ballot for Councillors of State, which resulted in the election of Mr. Edwin W. Jones, of Caldwell.

Mr. Clark, from the committee on Corporations, to whom was referred, a bill to incorporate the Union camp ground in the county of Cleavland. Referred back the same with an amendment recommending its passage.

A resolution in favor of the Hon. D. A. Barnes came up and passed its second reading.

A message was received from the House transmitting the House resolutions relating to the loyalty of the State. On motion of Mr. Love, they were made the special order for Friday next and ordered to be printed. A bill to amend 6th section of the 48th chapter of the Revised Code. A bill to repeal an act to provide hands to work on public roads.

The bill to repeal an ordinance to exchange the stock of the State for bonds, came up on its third reading, and on motion of Mr. Berry it was passed over informally.

A message was received from the House proposing to go forthwith into the appointment of Justices of the Peace which was concurred in. A number of changes and additional names were offered from nearly all the counties in the State. A list of the magistrates will be published at some future time.

On motion of Mr. Clark the Senate adjourned until Monday at 10½ o'clock.

[The Reporter should have said on yesterday that the motion of Mr. Respass to amend, by including the county of Beaufort, was concurred in, instead of being rejected.]

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

SATURDAY, Dec. 8.

The House was called to order at 10½ o'clock, A. M.

Prayer by Rev. Dr. Smedes of the Episcopal Church.

The journal of yesterday was read and approved.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. Waugh, from the Committee on Propositions and Grievances, reported a bill to supply artificial arms to disabled soldiers of this State, as a substitute for resolutions referred.

Mr. Rosebro, from the same committee, reported a bill for the relief of disabled soldiers. (Providing for the payment of commutation in certain cases in lieu of artificial limbs.)

A resolution in favor of Hon. A. S. Merrimon, reported back favorably from the Committee on Claims, passed its several readings under a suspension of the rules.

Mr. McClammy, from the joint committee on adjournment, reported a resolution that the General Assembly adjourn on the 24th. of December to re-assemble on Tuesday the 8th of January next.

Mr. Patton moved to amend the resolution by substituting the 28th of December as the time for re-assembling.

Mr. P. said that the resolution as reported was unjust to Western members. It did not give them time to go home and return. The amendment would give time to other members to visit their homes and not force members from the extreme West to remain here on expenses.

Mr. McClammy stated that it was not the intention of the committee to compel members from the West to remain here on expenses. They contemplated the introduction of a resolution to allow those remaining here during the recess upon their usual per diem.

Divers amendments were offered and discussed, and the resolution was finally recommitted on motion of Mr. Bryson.

The Committee that superintended the election on yesterday for five councillors of State reported the election of E. W. Jones of Caldwell county. No other election.

At 12 o'clock M. the House proceeded to execute the Joint order for the appointment of Justices of the Peace.

The counties were called alphabetically and a number of nominations were made. The name of John C. Hill was stricken from the list recommended for Randolph county, on motion of Mr. Waugh, after discussion.

Mr. Clark introduced a resolution requiring the Committee on adjournment, to report on Monday next. Adopted.

Mr. Russ a Joint resolution requiring the printing of the Comptroller's Report hereafter, before the meeting of the General Assembly. Adopted.

By Mr. Latham of Washington; a bill to amend sec. 7th chap. 62 Revised Code entitled Justices of the Peace.

By Mr. Harper; a resolution to authorize the Public Treasurer to employ counsel in certain cases. Passed its several readings under a suspension of the rules.

By Mr. Cowan; a bill to amend the 3rd section of the 95th chapter of the Revised Code, entitled Religious Societies.

Mr. Whitfield was allowed to record his vote in favor of the resolutions introduced by Mr. Russ on yesterday, asserting the loyalty of the State.

A message was received from the Governor transmitting the report of the Board of Internal Improvements. Sent to the Senate with a proposition to print.

A bill confirming the sale of the old Jail lot in the County of Edgecombe, passed its second and third readings under a suspension of the rules.

Sundry Engrossed Bills from the Senate had their first reading.

One of these authorizing a majority of the justices in the several counties, to regulate the fees of Jailors, was laid on the table on motion of Mr. Latham, of Washington, a law of like purport having been passed by the last General Assembly.

An engrossed bill to authorize the Dismal Swamp Canal Company to issue eight per cent bonds, had its first reading.

On motion of Mr. Cowan, the rules were suspended, and the bill passed its 2nd. and 3rd. readings and was ordered to be enrolled.

A message was received from the Senate refusing to appoint certain persons recommended by the House as magistrates for Randolph county and recommending others for appointment.

Mr. Blair protested against the Senate's action and moved to lay the message on the table.—Not agreed to. The House concurred in the message, and then adjourned.

DIED.

"Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

LINWOOD, AND RICH JERSEY LANDS,

FOR SALE!

LOSSES of property and my own, with a desire to close business and pay my debts, has induced me to convey, by Deed in Trust, all my property to Alfred Hargrave, of Lexington, North Carolina, which will be sold by him, and conveyances made, on Tuesday, the 11th. of December, 1866, at Linwood first, and Lexington next, from day to day until all is sold, consisting of the following property:

Linwood, Consisting of 1,040 Acres.

This celebrated tract will be divided into a number of ones, suiting large or smaller purchasers, including a valuable Flouring Mill, a comfortable roomy Cottage, Servant's Houses, Barns, Sheds, with wells and springs of excellent water. The natural fertility of these land is unsurpassed even in the famed "Jersey Settlement," in the heart of which they are located. They lie on both sides of the North Carolina Railroad, 7 miles from Lexington, and 11 from Salisbury, N. C. These lands are bounded by the Yadkin River, and run north and east covering Swearing Creek, and north and south Pott's Creek; have been ditched, drained and under-drained at much expense; have nearly five hundred acres of woodland, in heavy, original forest growth, equally distributed on different parts of the estate, and sufficient for farming purposes, not an acre but what is well situated for cultivation, or the raising of grass. There are now on them fine mowing and grazing lots and fields, with woodland pastures. In all these particulars constituting one of the most desirable and healthy estates in the South. It is enough to say for it, that it is the best and most valuable estate in the famed "Jersey Settlement," and has been under a state of improvement for forty years. Cotton, Wheat and Corn have been the staple products, but there are now large fields in a condition to produce the best yield and quality of shipping Tobacco, drained and cleared of stumps and stones, easily to be broken and ridged into ground for tobacco hills.

Also, a tract of two hundred Acres of Woodland, in original forest growth, of Oak, Hickory and Yellow Pine, 2½ miles from Lexington, and 2½ miles from a Saw Mill on Abbott's Creek, and known as the Garner Place.

Also, 81 Acres—the TRENTHAM PLACE—constituting a part and adjoining the town of Lexington. Highly improved land.

Also, my interest in the Houses and Lots on which I live, in all nine acres, on which is a Fine Mansion House and improvements.

Also, the Celebrated Blooded Stallion, MEDLEY, drives well in harness. A match of superior blooded Carriage Horses, kind in harness. A superior Blooded Gelding, 4 years old. Two Blooded Brood Mares, one with a Colt. One Buggy Horse. Twenty first-class Mules, and two Jennies. Also a fine Blooded Filly, going on four years old.

Also, 67 head best bred North Devon Cattle, bred from the best imported Bulls and Premium Cows, of which there are about 40 Milch Cows, 3 fine Bulls, with young Bull Calves and Heifers, &c., and a fine yoke of North Devon Oxen.

Also, 88 head best bred South Down Sheep, including a superior lot of Rams, all of the best importations. A Stock of Hogs. The whole of the crop of Corn, Cotton, Oats, Hay, Fodder, Straw, Shucks, &c.

Also, 4 horse Wagons, 2 horse Wagons, Ox Wagons and Carts, and a number of Iron Cart Axles. A Family Carriage, a Barouche, 2 Buggies and an Ambulance.

Also, a very large stock of the best Agricultural Implements, viz: 3 horse, 2 horse and 1 horse Plows, Harrows, Iron and wooden framed Cultivators, Iron Clod-Crushers and Sectional Rollers, one Wheat Drill with Guano attachment, one superior Threshing Machine, Wheat Fans, two Reaping and one Mowing Machine, Farm Boilers, Spades, Shovels, Axes, Mattocks, Picks, Crow-Bars, Blacksmith and Wood Shop Tools, with Bellows, &c., and Carpenter's Tools.

Also, 20 shares of stock in the North Carolina Railroad Company.

Also, all the Household and Kitchen Furniture, one new Hydraulic Ram with glass air-chamber, and a large lot of Lead and proof Tin Pipe, with every variety of property named in the Trust.

I invite all my friends to attend the sale, and supply themselves with material to begin and prosecute an improved system of husbandry, from the point I have left off.

W. R. HOLT.

At the time and place above named, the sale will take place, viz: Tuesday, the 11th of December, 1866, and continue from day to day until all is sold.

For the Lands, 6 and 12 months credit will be given, bond and approved security required, and title made when paid for. For the personal property, 6 months credit for sums over ten dollars, under ten dollars, cash. Interest discounted for cash over sums of ten dollars.

By this practical illustration of the advantages of Life Insurance, it is commended to the confidence and support of every one desirous of providing for surviving loved ones.

As an investment merely, a Life Insurance Policy is as safe an investment of funds as can be made.—The principal, generally, is not only many times in excess of the amount paid, but in a sound company it has no rival for security, and no species of Government bonds are a more desirable investment.
